DESTITUTE PERSONS – CREMATION OR BURIAL

1. Introduction

This policy directive rescinds Policy Directive PD2007_051 due to the inclusion in that Policy Directive of Police forms, and references to them, which are no longer to be used. This Policy Directive deals with the cremation or burial of the bodies of deceased destitute persons in the State of New South Wales as set out in this document.

Definitions:

For the purposes of this policy directive the following terms mean:

“Destitute Persons” – deceased persons with no money or assets and whose relatives and friends are unable to pay the costs of cremation or burial.

“Still Birth” – means the birth of a child that exhibits no sign of respiration or heartbeat, or other signs of life, after birth and that:

- a) is at least 20 weeks’ gestation; or
- b) if it cannot be reliably established whether the period of gestation is more or less than 20 weeks, has a body mass of at least 400 grams at birth.

“Public Health Unit” – please see the attached list (attachment I).

2. Cremation/Burial generally

Funeral procedures and rites are helpful for the resolution of grief and the bereavement process. This is no less true for the families and friends of people who are destitute when they die. The conditions for the cremation or burial of deceased destitute persons should take equal account of the emotional needs of any relatives or friends of the deceased.

Cremation will generally be the preferred method of disposal, provided that:

- there is no objection set out in the Will of the deceased;
- there is a written agreement of any known relatives or friends;
- it is not contrary to the direction of the State Coroner; and
- all necessary cremation certificates have been completed

In all Area Health Services and Public health facilities it should be noted that only the contracted funeral director will be contacted to provide the service. A list of these can be obtained from the Department of Commerce, Office of Government Business and Procurement.

3. Responsibility for Burial or Cremation of Destitute Persons

Public Health Units are responsible for the administration of the process related to the cremation and burial of destitute persons within their Area Health Service boundaries and are to provide assistance and advice to interested parties to ensure all requirements are adhered to.

The cost of cremation or burial of deceased destitute persons is the responsibility of the Area Health Service.

4. Procedure for Burial or Cremation

4.1 Where the death occurs in a public hospital, State Government nursing home, or other facility under the control of a public health organisation under the Health Services Act (in this policy directive referred to as a 'public health facility') and a medical practitioner has issued a death certificate:

- The social worker at that facility shall make all reasonable inquiries to locate any relatives, friends or members of organisations that may wish to arrange for a cremation or burial of the body at their own expense.
- Where no one is able to pay for the cremation or burial of the body:
 1. issue an order to the contracted funeral director for a funeral and cremation or burial to be conducted in accordance with the contract requirements;
 2. arrange for an officer of the public health facility to attend the service; and
 3. forward the duly certified invoice to the Area Health Service for payment.

The assistance of the Police may be obtained if the facility's own enquiries fail to locate any relatives, friends, or others who may wish to arrange a cremation or burial at their own expense. This will help to avoid causing unnecessary distress to people who may have wished to make other funeral arrangements and been willing to pay the funeral costs.

4.2 Where the death of a destitute person occurs outside of a public health facility, does not fall within the Coroners jurisdiction, a medical certificate as to the cause of death has been issued, and the Police have determined that the State is ultimately responsible for the burial or cremation then:

- Police will complete form P372 (attachment 2);
- the form is then forwarded to the Director of the Public Health Unit for the relevant Area Health Service;
- an Environmental Health Officer will complete form HEALTH373 (attachment 3) and contact the contracted funeral director to arrange for the burial or cremation; and
- after the burial or cremation, the contracted funeral director will forward the invoice to the Public Health Unit to arrange payment by the appropriate Area Health Service.

4.3 Where the death of a person comes within the Coroner's jurisdiction, or when a medical certificate as to the cause of death has been not been issued, and the Police have determined that the State is ultimately responsible for the burial or cremation then:

- Police will complete forms P372 (attachment 2) and forward them to the Coroner;
- in all cases the Coroner will issue an Order for Disposal of a Destitute Person;
- the Coroner will forward the forms to the Director of the appropriate Public Health Unit and request the burial or cremation to be conducted; and
- an Environmental Health Officer will complete Form HEALTH 373 (attachment 3), contact the contracted funeral director and request to arrange the burial or cremation.

5. Contracts for Destitute Cremation and Burial

Contracts for the cremation or burial of deceased destitute persons are under the control of the Department of Commerce, Office of Government Business and Procurement. Contract details and information about them may be obtained from the Office of Business and Procurement. Such contracts are generally reviewed every three years.

Each contract may cover one or more police regions/local areas/towns, and includes services to all public health facilities in that police region/local area/town. Public health facilities and Area Health Services must use the contracted funeral director for all funerals, cremations or burials paid for by the Area Health Service under these arrangements.

Contracts generally provide for separate rates of payment, whether it is a burial or cremation, for:

- adult – burial including ground fee and burial rites and relevant certificates;
- child under 1.1 metres – burial including ground fee and burial rites and relevant certificates;
- still-born neo-nate (not less than 20 weeks gestation or 400 grams in weight) – burial including ground fee and burial rites and relevant certificates;
- adult – cremation including cremation fee and relevant certificates;
- child under 1.1 metres – cremation including cremation fee and relevant certificates; and
- still-born neo-nate – cremation including cremation fee and relevant certificates

6. Complaints about Contractors

Any complaints by family or friends about the performance of a contracted funeral director should be taken up in the first instance with the Department of Commerce, Office of Business and Procurement which has the primary responsibility for contracted funeral directors.

7. Responsibility of the Police

The Police are responsible in all cases for:

- determining whether a death is reportable to the Coroner and whether any person is able to pay for the cost of the burial or cremation;
- determining whether the deceased has any assets or estate; and
- completion of Forms P372 (attachment 2) and forwarding the form to the Public Health Unit (or to the Coroner in coroner's cases) as is appropriate and required in the particular case.

8. Records of Burial or Cremation

Under the Public Health (Disposal of Bodies) Regulation the cemetery or cremation authority is required to maintain records of the name, date, location of the grave, section and record number, or the location of the ashes, of the deceased. The ultimate burial/cremation site location details will generally also form part of the information recorded by the Registrar of Births, Deaths and Marriages. Public Health Units are also required to keep records of the name of the deceased, and place of burial/cremation and the contracted funeral director used.

9. Assistance to Relatives and Friends of the Deceased

Appropriate staff in the public health facilities should be made aware of this policy to enable information to be supplied to relatives of destitute persons where there is an obvious need of assistance with funeral expenses. Family members should be directed to the social worker who will assess the situation and provide appropriate advice.

A register is to be maintained at the Public Health Unit and notation made in that register in the event that relatives, after being provided details of destitute burial/cremation, decline the service. Any subsequent ex gratia request for contribution to the funeral arrangements for that particular person will then not be accepted (see Section 12 for ex gratia payments generally).

Where an ex gratia claim is made from non-family members the hospital is to examine carefully the bona fides of the claim as generally the full cost of the funeral is the responsibility of those persons.

Bereaved relatives and friends of a destitute person should, regardless of their inability to meet the cost of cremation or burial, be informed of funeral arrangements by the contracted funeral director and encouraged to attend the funeral service. They will, however, be entirely responsible for their own transportation to and from the service.

10. Death in a Hospital Remote from Residence

When the deceased destitute person has been transported from their normal area of residence to a “remote hospital” for treatment not available at their local hospital, and has died at the remote hospital, the reasonable costs of returning the body to the area of residence may be paid if:

- the burial/cremation in their local area is requested by relatives of the deceased; and
- approval was arranged prior to the transfer of the body.

In these cases, the cost of transport back to the local area will be met by the remote hospital where the person dies. The costs of the actual destitute funeral will be met by the local Area Health Service covering the deceased’s normal place of residence.

11. Australian Ex-Service Man or Woman

The Department of Veterans’ Affairs will pay a certain amount towards the funeral expenses of an Australian ex-service man or woman who dies in destitute circumstances. The Department of Veteran Affairs should be contacted for the current details of the benefit payable in a particular case.

12. Requests for Financial Assistance after the Funeral has been performed

Where the funeral service has already been conducted, and persons otherwise responsible for the funeral arrangements claim financial difficulty, a petition may be submitted to the relevant Area Health Service for an ex gratia contribution to that cost. Chief Executives have limited delegation to approve the provision of financial aid to impoverished families to assist with already incurred burial costs of relatives. All other ex gratia payments are to be referred to the Department of Health.

The petition should take the form of a covering letter requesting assistance and the circumstances for the request. In addition all petitioners must supply a signed statutory declaration witnessed by a Justice of the Peace, which states:

- a complete listing of the assets of the deceased;
- a complete listing of assets, income, expenditure of the remaining relatives;
- a copy of the funeral director’s invoice. If the invoice has been fully paid, it would be in very exceptional circumstances that any assistance would be offered;
- a copy of the death certificate;
- details of any financial assistance provided by charities, Centrelink or any other source; and
- details of any arrangement made with the funeral director to pay off the debt.

Title: Destitute Persons – Cremation or Burial

It should be noted, as per the Combined Delegations Manual (Delegation F91), that the Chief Executives of all Area Health Services are authorised to approve of ex gratia payments under this delegation within specified limits. Chief Executives are required to submit an annual return each financial year of the actual payments made to the Chief Financial Officer, Department of Health. The return for each year must include the following details;

- recipient;
- value of ex gratia payment;
- full cost of funeral as claimed by recipient; and
- number of claims rejected without any ex gratia payment made.

The Department will therefore no longer have primary administrative and financial liabilities associated with destitute burials and ex gratia payments. To facilitate the management by Area Health Services of all future claims for destitute burials and ex gratia payments the Department is providing annualised budget supplementation to Area Health Services from 1 July 2007 based on average annual costs over the previous 3 years.
